TOWNS ARE IN ASHES UP IN THE PINERIES

NORTHERN WISCONSIN SWEPT BY FLAMES.

The City of Phillips Wiped Off the Map—Not a Building Left Standing and Three Thousand People Are Left Absolutely Without Homes—Many Lives Lost.

ASHLAND, Wis., July 28.—Northern Wisconsin is being swept by the worst forest fires in the history of the state. The losses already amount to millions of dollars, and unless rain falls speedily this enormous loss will be multiplied.

Reports indicate that several towns have been burned within a radius of a hundred miles of Ashland. To the south Phillips, the county seat of Pine county, a thriving town of 2,000 inhabitants, has been wiped out. Fifield, just north of Phillips, in Price county, has also been destroyed. Taylor county, directly south of Price, is being laid waste.

To the southwest of Ashland, Mason, a busy town of Bayfield county, has been burned. To the southeast in Forest and Langlade counties the flames are making destructive progress.

Appeals for aid to fight the fire came pouring into this city all yesterday afternoon and evening. Relief trains were dispatched, but in nearly every instance they encountered burned bridges and were forced to return. Being walled in by flames it is practically impossible to get assistance to the towns frantically asking it. Cut off from all outside succor rains are the only source of relief. And there is no sign of rain. The woods are dry and the flames sweep through them as through so much kindling. As they sweep onward they carry a menace of destruction to all the towns and farms of northern Wisconsin.

RESISTLESS SWEEP OF FLAMES.

Reports at Ashland of Surrounding Towns Destroyed.

ASHLAND, Wis., July 28.—Philips, the headquarters of John R. Davis Lumber company, a manufacturing town of 2,000 people, is totally destroyed by fire, and only a few buildings remain standing. A dispatch just received from Fifield, a small station a few miles this side of Philips, says that 500 women and children from Philips are in the woods there without shelter. Along the Omaha line the fires are raging with terrible fierceness. Shores Crossing, a little village eight miles west of Ashland, was destroyed; not a building remains standing and the homeless families were brought to Ashland. The railroad bridges near there were destroyed and a fast Omaha freight and sixteen loaded cars were entirely burned. Both the engineer and fireman were injured and the brakemen are missing. Loss to cars and freight many thousands of dollars.

Mason, a small town south on the Omaha line caught fire at 2 o'clock. The White River Lumber company's mill, with 40,000,000 feet of lumber in the yards, was destroyed, and at 6 o'clock the latest report received here says the entire town was threatened. The Omaha bridge across White river at Mason is burned. Railroad officials say the loss at Mason is fully $1,000,000, with $250,000 insurance.

Homesteaders in the outlying districts are all fleeing into the nearest towns, leaving their homes to the fury of the flames. So far no loss of life is reported. The fire department is carefully guarding the outside limits of Ashland and the city is not in any immediate danger.

News from Hurley states that town was enveloped in a dense cloud of smoke all day, with fires on nearly every side.

A construction train left over the Omaha road for the scene of a disaster near Washburn. A freight train went through a burning bridge and the locomotive and six cars were burned. Trainmen escaped. Thompson Lumber company camps at White river have burned. The White River Lumber company's plant at Mason has gone up in smoke with 40,000,000 feet of lumber. The Ashland Lumber company's camps have burned. Another bridge is reported as burned south of Mason, which puts the Omaha service under great disadvantage. Yesterday was the most destructive day for forest fires in the history of northern Wisconsin. It is impossible to fight the flames down. The only hope is that rain will come to put them out.

Much damage is being done to timber, and logging interests throughout Northern Wisconsin are suffering. Two bridges are reported to have been burned and the logging railroad of the Ashland Lumber company, together with two engines. The progress of the fire has not been retarded and it swept away the buildings of Camp 1 belonging to the same company late in the afternoon.

FIFIELD BURNED TO THE GROUND.

Fire from Phillips Sweeps Northward—Many Lives Threatened.

ASHLAND, Wis., July 28.—Up to 11 o'clock last night no further reports have been received from Fifield, as telegraphic communication has been entirely cut off. It is thought here that the fire which swept Phillips has reached Fifield and destroyed that town also.

At 7 o'clock Ed Ensign, a prominent lumberman, telegraphed to the mayor here from Fifield for bread and meat to be sent down there at once; that there was 500 women and children between Fifield and Phillips without food and fire raging fiercely around them. Supplies were sent at once. It is feared that many lives are lost, as with the hundreds of women and children in the woods and fire all around them some must perish surely.

The tannery and immense lumbering concern at Phillips are among the ruins, so that the loss will be appalling. The Omaha freight train destroyed near Shores Crossing was loaded with wheat. The fire came upon Shores Crossing with terrible rapidity and many residents there lost everything they possessed. Not a structure of any kind remains standing there.

A dozen bridges on the Omaha line have been burned and railroad men say it will take two weeks to rebuild the one destroyed at Mason. At 10 o'clock a welcome rain began falling, the first one in some days, but unfortunately lasted only a few minutes, so that it will not put out the fires to any extent. Mason is literally wiped out of existence. The fire started in the lumber yard of the White River Lumber company from sparks from the forest fires and though the 400 employes worked nobly in defense of their homes the resistless flames swept through the town.

SEVERAL TOWNS WIPED OUT.

Flames Sweep Down from Forests and Consume Them.

MILWAUKEE, Wis., July 28.—Reports from various points in the northern part of Wisconsin, along the Wisconsin Central, the Green Bay, Winona and St. Paul the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul, and the Omaha and Soo lines show that much of the territory, which is covered by timber, is in a highly inflammable condition if not already burning. There has been no rain of any consequence in Price county and in the territory surrounding it for several weeks, and numerous blazes have got beyond the control of the settlers and railroad employes.

Several bridges over the Soo line near Prentice have already been burned and a number of settlers rendered homeless by the flames they were powerless to stay. Much valuable property has been destroyed in the vicinity of Grand Rapids and Centralia and the people there are hoping for rain, which they believe is the only thing that will prevent further serious loss.

GRAND RAPIDS, Wis., July 28.—Extensive fires are running in the woods and marshes north and west of here. The fire is very near the city of Centralia. Great volumes of smoke are rising on a heavy wind. Thermometers indicated as high as 106 degrees in the shade yesterday.

BURNED TO DEATH ON PRAIRIES.

One Man Loses His Life Near Pierre, S. D.—Heavy Loss Entailed.

PIERRE, S. D., July 28.—Lightning struck the prairie a few miles above the city yesterday, causing a terrible fire, which was aided by high wind. One man and several horses were burned to death. Several hay camps and thousands of tons of hay were entirely destroyed.

CHAMBERLAIN, S. D., July 28.—A disastrous blaze started last night near Lower Brule Agency, S. D., burning over 1,000 acres and destroying valuable hay-stacks. It is still burning, headed toward Rosebud agency.

WATERLOO, Iowa, July 28.—A prairie fire started by a spark from a Chicago Great Western engine swept over the farm of W. A. Wilson, near this city, yesterday. Nine farm buildings, including a fine residence, were destroyed. Loss about $3,000; partly insured.

HUNTINGTON, Ind., July 28.—Prairie fires are raging fiercely between this city and Fort Wayne. For two or three days they have been burning over several thousand acres of wheat, oats and hay fields, and stubble fields. Whole families in that section were out fighting the fire.

Farmers Surrounded by Flames.

MEDFORD, Wis., July 28.—Powells Mills, eight miles west of here, sent word early this morning asking for assistance on account of forest fires. The hand engine was dispatched at once with teams and 100 men went to the rescue and arrived noon too soon to save the mill. Live stock is dying by the side of the road and is being burned to a crisp. Great fears are entertained for a dozen farmers who live dortheast of Powells Mills, whose one road or exit is surrounded by fire. Word has been received here that six families between Chelsea and Rib Lake were burned out.

Rain Falls at Duluth.

DULUTH, Minn., July 28.—A heavy rain is falling in Duluth and in all the surrounding country. The rain is the first for weeks. It has already put out in a great measure the forest fires about Duluth, and will have its effect on the Mesaba range and to the west. A continuous rain of a day or two will be worth thousands of dollars to lumbermen.

Strike Causes a Terrible Tragedy.

ALBERT LEA, Minn., July 28.—W. O. Willey, a brakeman, fatally shot his wife and attempted to commit suicide yesterday. He is now in jail. The tragedy was caused by quarrels over the strike, his wife sympathizing with the American Railway Union.

STEVENSON CALLED BACK TO HIS SEAT

DEMOCRATIC SENATORS SAY THEY NEED HIM.

Further Conference With the House Ordered—The Senate Will Not Recede From Its Tariff Amendments—The Vote a Tie 32 to 32—Senate Adjourned Till Monday.

WASHINGTON, July 28.—Democratic senators have asked Vice President Stevenson to hurry to Washington as his presence is needed in the tariff conference. When the report of the conference on the tariff bill was called up by Senator Jones of Arkansas in the senate yesterday the pending question was the decision of the chair on the points of order raised by Messrs. Gray and Mills against Mr. Washburn's motion to instruct the senate conferrees to recede from the one-eighth of one cent differential on sugar above 16 Dutch standard. Mr. Manderson was immediately recognized and maintained with vigor that it was competent for the senate to instruct its conferrees. The ruling on this point of order would determine whether the senate should have the right to pass upon this odious differential, the striking of which meant the defeat of the whole bill.

Mr. Platt (rep., Conn.) followed in opposition to the point of order.

Mr. Harris then gave his ruling. The occupant of the chair believed that the senate can not directly amend an amendment that has gone to conference and that it can not do so indirectly. The point of order of Mr. Gray, he concluded, was therefore sustained.

Mr. Washburn appealed from the decision of the chair, and Mr. Faulkner moved to lay the appeal on the table. The yeas and nays were demanded. As the roll call proceeded the senate became very serious. The announcement of the result, yeas, 32; nays, 32, caused a sensation, as it meant a failure of the motion to lay Mr. Washburn's appeal on the table and prospectively a vote on his motion to recede from his vote of one-eighth of a cent difference.

The vote on the motion to lay on the table was as follows: Yeas, 32; nays, 32.

Senator Stewart was the only senator who was absent and not paired. He was in the republican cloak-room while the votes were being taken.

The motion to lay on the table having been lost on the tie vote the question reverted on the main issue—that on sustaining the decision of the chair. The roll was called amid the most intense excitement. It also resulted 32—32, and, according to parliamentary usage, was declared lost. The decision of the chair was therefore not sustained, and the motion of Mr. Washburn to instruct the conferrees to recede from the senate amendment was in order. Without further ado the clerk obeyed the instructions of Mr. Harris and began calling the roll. The democrats, with the exception of Mr. Hill, voted against the motion. Deep silence reigned as Mr. Harris arose to announce the vote.

"Upon this question," said the presiding officer, "32 have voted in the affirmative and 32 in the negative, and the motion is lost."

Mr. Gorman immediately called for a vote on the resolution to agree to the request of the house for a further conference, but it was agreed to without division.

The senate then proceeded to consider and pass some unobjectionable bills on the calendar. Then, at 3:46 p. m., the senate, on motion of Mr. Gorman, adjourned until Monday.

McMillin Sees the President.

WASHINGTON, July 28.—A messenger from the executive mansion reached the house of representatives half an hour after the senate had voted to send the tariff bill back to conference with a note for Representative McMillin, the ranking house conferree in the absence of Mr. Wilson, asking him to call at the white house. Mr. McMillin declined to talk of his call on the President. The democratic conferrees will hold an informal meeting to-day, and Senator Jones said that the full conference, including republican members, would probably be called together Monday.

Non-Union Men Use Revolvers.

BRAZIL, Ind., July 28.—Ed and William Donelly, two brothers who are working for the Chicago & Eastern Illinois, were stoned last night by a crowd of strikers near the roundhouse. Ed was badly hurt. Both of the Donelys drew revolvers and began shooting into the crowd, dispersing it. It is rumored that one man was wounded. Officers are at work on the case.

Big Gold Find in New Mexico.

SILVER CITY, N. M., July 28.—A gold strike has been made in the Pinos Altos district which promises to be by far the richest yet made in New Mexico. The new strike is about two miles from the big gold mines at Pinos Altos and hundreds of prospectors have gone over the grounds since the camp of Pinos Altos was struck in the '60s.

DROWNED 1,200 MEN IN A CHINESE SEA

JAPANESE WARSHIP DID FEARFUL EXECUTION.

By Sinking a Heavily Loaded Transport Belonging to the Enemy It Caused the Death of a Host of Soldiers—Man of War Captured By the Invaders

SHANGHAI, July 28.—The Chinese transport that was sunk by the Japanese had eleven hundred troops. All were drowned. The Japanese have captured a Chinese man-of-war.

LONDON, July 28.—A dispatch received here at 11:20 o'clock a. m. today from Lloyd's agent at Shanghai, China, confirms the announcement that war between China and Japan has been declared and fighting is said to have already begun.

Hugh Mathieson & Co., the Chinese government agents in England, have received a cable message which also confirms the announcement that war has been declared between China and Japan. Up to noon, however, neither the Chinese nor the Japanese minister had received advices which would enable them to confirm the report of the outbreak of hostilities which has apparently followed the declaration of war. In fact, both ministers say they have not been officially informed that war has been declared, claiming that the only information they have on the subject is derived from the newspaper dispatches.

The ministers also claim to be ignorant of anything which would tend to confirm the report that the Japanese have captured the king of Corea.

One of the Anglo-Chinese merchants of this city expressed the belief that two naval engagements have already been fought in Corean waters, one Tuesday and one Wednesday last, and everybody questioned on the subject seems to agree that Chinese were defeated with heavy loss.

Great difficulty is experienced in obtaining accurate news in regard to the situation of affairs, owing to the fact that telegraphic communication has twice been completely interrupted beyond Nagasaki, Japan, and all messages have been delayed and it is believed that further news will shortly reach here showing that on the water, at least, the Japanese have already obtained a decided advantage.

There is no doubt that some of the Anglo-Chinese merchants of London are in possession of more accurate information in regard to the reported Japanese successes than they are willing to admit, but for reasons best known to themselves they insist upon withholding this information for the present at least, as their sympathies are undoubtedly with China in the struggle which is now generally admitted to have commenced.

If the treaty ports remain open England expects to make a continuous profit out of the war between China and Japan, while the fact that Russia is, directly or indirectly, giving assistance to Japan, is looked upon by the English merchants as likely to place a perpetual stop upon Russia's trade progress with China.

WASHINGTON, July 28.—The king of Corea is a Japanese prisoner. This was the important statement contained in a telegram dated yesterday which Secretary Herbert has received from Capt. Day of the United States steamship Baltimore, now at Chemulpo, Corea. Capt. Day, besides stating that the King of Corea is a captive in the hands of the Japanese, reported that he had dispatched a force of marines from his ship to Seoul, the capital to protect the United States legation. There were no advices received at the state department to-day confirming the declaration of war between China and Japan, and the Japanese minister, who called at the department to-day to arrange for his farewell call upon the President, said to the department that he was also without information to that effect.

More Collisions Expected Hourly.

TIEN-TSIN, China, July 28.—The gravity of the situation is fully realized here, now that hostilities between China and Japan have commenced. While no formal declaration of war, according to the usual diplomatic forms, has been made either at Tokio or at Peking, the governments of both countries recognize that an actual state of war exists, and more collisions between the forces of the two countries are expected hourly. Considerable anxiety is expressed here as to the result of war. The general opinion seems to be that while Japan may be looked upon as likely to score the first victories the Chinese troops will eventually drive the Japanese out of Corea, even if millions of men have to be sent to the front to do so.

Proposed Laborite Convention.

OMAHA, Neb., July 28.—A call has been issued by the Knights of Labor of Omaha to all organized labor asking it to participate in the deliberations of a general convention to be held Aug. 11 to talk over the political situation and outline a policy for the workingman in the cause of labor.

NO NET GAIN IN TRADE.

Business Improves in Many Sections, but Is Stagnant in Others.

NEW YORK, July 28.—Bradstreet's review of the state of trade says:

Leading influences affecting the course of general trouble throughout the United States within the week have not resulted in a net gain. Prolonged drouth and hot winds have damaged corn and other crops in Nebraska and fears are entertained of like losses in Kansas. Without early rains the reduction in the yield of Indian corn is expected to be considerable. The outlook for the yield in the spring wheat states is regarded as unfavorable, which reacts upon country merchants and checks demand.

Several thousand striking miners in Ohio, Indiana and Alabama refuse to return to work at rates agreed upon in conference, and this continues to depress business throughout tributary regions. Continued exports of gold from New York are regarded as an unfavorable influence, and there are more unfavorable reports as to mercantile collections. More serious in its disorganizing effect on general business is the continued delay to tariff legislation, few merchants caring to try to provide for prospective wants in view of the uncertainty.

Exports of wheat, United States and Canada, both coasts, for six business days ending July 26, have increased surprisingly, amounting to 3,388,000 bushels. Last week the total was 1,873,000 bushels and the week before 2,377,000 bushels. One year ago, in the fourth week of July, the total exported was 4,363,000 bushels. Two years ago it was 2,524,000 bushels, three years ago 3,164,000 bushels and four years ago 2,272,000 bushels.

There have been 237 business failures in the United States this week, compared with 212 last week, with 489 in the fourth week of July last year, when the effects of the financial panic were being severely felt by the business community; there were 163 in the week two years ago, and 200 three years ago.

Steele and Levy broke the tandem's world's record on the half mile. To-day Johnson goes against the standing start mile record. Sanger took the mile open in the slow time of 2:07 1-5, with Johnson second and Titus third.

Talk of a Strike on the Atchison.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., July 28.—The Journal publishes a story to the effect that the Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fe railroad may be involved in another strike within forty-eight hours. The whole system will, it is said, be affected. The men fear a cut in salaries and say they will not submit to it.

Engineer Clark did not discover the fact until four miles out. He sidetracked the front section and started back after the rear end. Another freight seut out met the returning engine on the curve, and they came together with a fearful crash. Engineer Clark and Brakeman John Donohue were killed. Clark lived in Saginaw, Mo., and Donohue in Andrews. Both leave families.

WILL RECOGNIZE HAWAII.

President Cleveland Only Awaiting Official Advices from Minister Willis.

WASHINGTON, July 28.—The administration has decided to recognize the Hawaiian republic. Nothing, however, can be done till the official papers are received from the new republic giving the official history of the situation. They are expected to-morrow or Monday. If they corroborate the press reports this government's formal recognition will be at once prepared and forwarded to Minister Willis, who will then formally and in the name of the United States recognize the Hawaiian republic. The recognition already given is an informal proceeding and does not bind this government, whose policy in that regard is like Great Britain's, in that no one can recognize a new power till authorized to do so by the home government.

IRON HALL CASH AWARDED

Baltimore Court Turns $100,000 Over to the General Receiver.

BALTIMORE, July 28.—Judge Dennis has decided in favor of the petition of James F. Failey of Indiana, the general receiver of the order of the Iron Hall, to have the $100,000 in the hands of the local receivers, Charles J. Wiener and Joseph C. France, distributed by himself. Judge Dennis says, however, that while the fund will be awarded the Indiana receiver for distribution, it will only be so ordered after the court has received satisfactory proof of the adoption by the Indiana court of such provisions as will protect the members of the order resident here, and assure to them a fair distribution of all the assets. They must be put upon an equal footing with the most favored class of the creditors in the court of the domicile of the corporation.

NEPHEW HAPPENS IN TO CLAIM A LEGACY.

THE BIG MILLER ESTATE DEVELOPES A ROMANCE.

Judge Sale's Court Records Give a Young Man Information After Forty Years that Will Result In His Getting a Quarter Interest In a Fat Beloit Property.

Quite a bit of romance in real life has come to life in Judge Sale's court. It will be remembered that a short time ago two old residents of Beloit, David P. Miller and his wife Mary A. Miller, both died, one following the other in just two months and a day. Mr. and Mrs. Miller left no issue, but had accumulated a handsome estate. Mr. Miller died intestate, thus under the law leaving all the estate to his wife Mary Ann. Prior to her death Mrs. Miller had been appointed administratrix of the estate. Mrs. Miller died intestate, her next of kin to whom the estate would descend, as it was understood, being two nieces and a nephew, Mrs. Frances L. Campbell of Canton, Ohio, and Miss Helen Bement and brother Henry Bement of Denver, Colorado. No other claimant appearing upon the scene the court was petitioned by the proper parties for the administration of the two estates, and after due public notice, J. B. Dow having filed bonds in accordance with the requirements of the court was appointed administrator de bonis non of the estate of David P. Miller and administrator of the estate of Mary A. Miller.

Nephew Comes to View.

The above are the facts. The "romance" came later. Yesterday two gentlemen called at the office of Mr. Dow, and were introduced by themselves, one of them E. A. Whitford, an attorney, of Hastings, Minn., and the other Frank W. Finch, alias Holmes, a nephew of Mary Ann Miller deceased. Mr. Finch-Holmes stated that he was formerly a resident of Beloit, a fact which he could never forget for the reason that he had small pox there, and was "pitted" to that extent that the sentiment had clung to him wherever he went. He said he left Beloit some thirty-eight years ago. His father, Mordecai Holmes was a brother of Mrs. Miller, whose maiden name was Mary Ann Holmes. His father died in 1856 at Hasting, Minn., and his mother was married again to Dr. J. E. Finch. Being a boy at the time, young Holmes, an inmate of the family, was naturally considered a "Finch," and, growing to manhood, adopted that name and had had no special reason for returning to his "first love" Holmes until some two weeks since he learned that his aunt at Beloit, Mrs. Mary A. Miller, had died intestate and childless.

Court Records All Explained.

Acting then upon the instinct of self-interest and self-preservation, he came down to Janesville with his attorney Mr. Whitford, and examined the probate records, and then went to Beloit, to interview the administrator and to ascertain both the status of the estate and his status in relation thereto. Mr. Holmes expressed himself as well pleased with the steps which had been taken looking toward the settlement of the estate, and equally well pleased that there was so comfortable an estate to settle. Mr. Holmes has been a druggist at Hastings for the past twenty years, and seems very confident that he is the same "little Holmes" who passed through that small pox ordeal in a brick house where Hanchett's block now stands, in Beloit, nearly forty years ago.

The First district will do its share toward the defeat of the party which would give twenty millions to the sugar trust, put 80 per cent. tariff on rice of Southern planters and then free list wool of Northern farmers. H. A. COOPER."

Nothing Has Been Done in the Leaf Market This Week.

There is apparently a temporary suspension of business in the tobacco markets of the state so far as the trade from growers is concerned. Buyers complain that farmers are too busy with their harvest to show samples while the hot, dry weather makes it much more convenient to remain at home. The Edgerton Reporter says: "Joe Cullman and L. Weil of New York, are in the state examining cured leaf in the hands of packers. It is rumored that a sale of a large packing of nearly 200cs '92 at Madison, has been sold to Cullman Bros."

Since last reports general rains have fallen covering the tobacco section, giving temporary relief from the drouth. The soil is again however in need of moisture which must be soon forthcoming to ensure a good crop. As a general thing the medium set fields are looking fairly well for the time of season."

FIRES ALONG THE RAILROAD TRACKS

Much Damage Done by Blazes That Start In Dry Grass.

Fires along the railway tracks south of this city have been doing considerable damage the past few days A number of stacks of hay and grain have been destroyed, besides fencing and telegraph poles. Yesterday a farm house between Crystal Lake and Cary was destroyed. Pastures along the railway track have been burned over in many localities, and railway section men have been kept busy fighting fires for days. The showers of today will prove a great benefit.

NEEDS AN EAGLE EYE TO RUN A "TROLLEY."

MOTORMEN DECLARE THEIR JOB ISN'T AN EASY ONE.

Railroad Engineer Has a Clear Track For Miles While They are Lucky to Get Along Without Dodging Trouble Every Twenty Feet—Big Damage Verdicts.

Several accidents have resulted from collisions with the street cars in this city. None of these mishaps are attributed to the carelessness of street railway employes, however, and no damage suits will result. All the Janesville motor men are of proved reliability, although they are not formally tested for eye-sight and judgement before they are hired, as is done in many cities. Down at New York, Jersey City and other places the greatest care is exercised. Janesville is not so large a place as New York and Jersey City, but at times there is great care necessary to run a car. In speaking of the subject an exchange says, that the care which the managers of steam railroads exercise in the employment of engineers is well known. The slightest defect whatever is cause enough to discharge a man. According to a trolley official who talked to a reporter in Jersey City, the necessity of a perfect sight to run a trolley car is greater even than it is to run a locomotive.

Harder Than Running an Engine.

The locomotive engineer has a clear track to run on and a chance to see obstacles a long ways off, while a man on a street car has no chance at all. In order to make up time he must go at a high rate of speed when he sees fifty feet of clear track ahead of him. Twenty times in a single trip he has to run up within half a dozen feet of the rear end of trucks. At street crossings he has to calculate the speed of an approaching wagon and regulate the speed of his own car so that the wagon may cross ahead of him; a mistake of a fraction of a minute may result in a collision. The same thing is true regarding pedestrians. He must see people on the curb starting to cross the street and must judge whether walking at the rate they are they will get across before his car reaches them. If he miscalculates their speed or his own he is liable to run them down. Such accidents are numerous.

Big Verdicts For Victims.

The list of fatal accidents on the trolley roads of Brooklyn during the last year is almost appalling. There were fifty-six deaths. The slaughter has now become a matter of so much public concern that Mayor Schieren has called a meeting of the presidents and managers of the different electric railroad lines, to be held forthwith at the Mayor's office, to consider methods of running their cars with better regard to public safety.

Heavy damages recovered from the companies do not seem to lessen the number of accidents. One woman whose feet were cut off by a trolley car, has received a verdict of $20,000 against the company. Another verdict of $15,000 was given to a woman who was thrown from a car in a collision and injured internally. There were other verdicts of $12,000, $10,000 and $8,000 awarded to people who were injured in other ways.

HE BECAME A CHAMPION.

After Trying Many Things He Struck the Right Thing at Last.

"No," said the tall young man to a Buffalo Express writer, "I must confess that I did not win renown in college in the usual way. When I first went there I decided I was not cut out for an athlete, and I made up my mind that I would win scholastic honors. I vowed that I would come away from that institution of learning with all sorts of medals and degrees, and I went at it hammer and tongs. I dug and dug and dug, and burned the midnight oil, and all that sort of thing for six weeks. Then I found that there were a dozen men in my class any one of whom could give me a hatful of brains and then have more left than I had, and I kind of quit the scholastic honor lay and tackled something else.

"I had myself examined by a doctor, and he told me that with practice I might get to be a good oarsman or baseball player, or something of that sort. I went into the gymnasium, throwing my former ideas about athletics to the winds, and spent hours there each day. I did all sorts of exercises, and, just when I had concluded that I was about good enough to do something publicly, I ran across a lot of the crack athletes at work, and, after watching them for half an hour, gave my gymnasium rig to the first man I met and never entered the place again.

"Literature seemed to be about the only thing left open to me; I set out to be known as the brightest writer in the 'varsity. I wrote a whole lot of stuff for the college periodicals, and sat down and waited for it to be printed, so that I could be hailed as a genius. The editors didn't look at the stuff in the light I did, and they refused every blank word of it. All avenues for greatness seemed closed to me then, and I was pretty blue for a few days. Finally I hit on something and I made a grand success of it. I was the greatest man in my line Harvard ever had."

The tall young man paused impressively, and then said: "I came away from that institution of learning owing more money than any person who preceded or had followed me."

PLENTY OF DEVILS FOUND IN A CHURCH

EVANGELIST WELCH REFERS TO ST. PATRICK'S.

He Doesn't Think the Protestant Churches Are Models By Any Manner of Means--Mark Twain's Good Boy Story Dragged In By the Ears.

Evangelist Welch had very little to say to his small audience last night about devils.

"If you want to find out who the devils are that hang around the tent, just take a peep into Father McGinnity's church," said he "and you will see them."

The evangelist got quite warm in his discourse, and apparently desired to knife every church that did not worship underneath his canvas. He held a bible in his hand when he said: "If I thought this bible contained the damnable heresies taught by the protestant churches of this country, I would burn it. It contains no such damnable lies."

He condemned the Sunday schools in unstinted language, insisting that the youth of the land were instructed in falsehoods, that the Sunday school literature was no better than the yellow covered novels, and that he had much rather his children would study "Sixteen String Jack's" book than any of the books distributed in the Sunday schools. He then rehashed Mark Twain's Sunday School story, claiming it was his personal experience in Sunday school. "When I was a little boy" said he "I went to Sunday school. At that time something was written about all good little boys, and the handsome boys and girls who went to the Sunday school had their pictures printed in the books. I thought it would be a good thing to have a picture in the Sunday school books, and the teacher told me if I would be a good little boy I would see my picture printed in the books. I resolved to be a good little boy and attend Sunday school. It was not long before I discovered that every one of the good little boys whose pictures were in the books died young. A little boy who was nine years old had his picture printed in the books, and died before he struck his teens. I realized that the teacher was cramming me with trash and lies, and I resolved not to be a good little boy of that order. That is only in keeping with other books, nothing but lies, that are taught the youth of the land. I do not want my children taught any such trash."

Surrounded by Icebergs.

During the recent return voyage from the old world the Allen line steamship Grecian passed fifty-two icebergs. Off Cape Race twenty-two bergs were in sight at one time. An officer of the ship said that many of the bergs were so close alongside that one might have stepped off the steamship to them without wetting his feet. The weather was perfectly clear.

ANOTHER TARPON TALE.

How a Green Hand Caught His First Big Fish.

"Princes, dukes and lords," says one man who is "on record" for a 170-pounder, six feet five inches long, to a Chicago Times writer, cross the ocean and fish for days and weeks in the boiling sun in the hope of catching tarpon; and yet when I landed my first big fish I felt as if I had done the work of three day laborers.

"I have come to the conclusion that as a school for excuse-making tarpon-fishing presents an extraordinary department for training. So many things happen and so many big fish get away that a gentleman who follows this business soon gets very prolific in giving reasons why he did not catch fish.

"Before 7 o'clock we were all out in the river with our guides, in small boats, ready for the sport of the day. I had hardly been well settled in my boat before I saw the waters part as if a waterspout were let loose, and coming out, splashing, I saw a fish, shining as burnished silver, spring into the air six or eight feet, shaking his head and showing his red gills in the most vicious and angry way. My guide yelled out with a voice which could be heard a mile 'Tarpon! tarpon!' but when I saw this fish at the other end of the line jumping out of the water and splashing around I concluded that there was trouble ahead for me and that the fish was a bigger man than I was, and that I had undertaken a tremendous job to get him into the boat.

"As the commander in chief of the party had told my guide that I knew nothing and was green enough for the Fort Myers cows to eat when it came to fishing I thought it was best to let the guide handle the fish awhile until, in the language of the streets, I might 'catch on.'

"I soon discovered that, notwithstanding Col. Young's orations and speeches on the subject of tarpon fishing, it was not such a big job after all. In about eighteen minutes after a hard fight, I landed my first tarpon and had him in the boat. My heart was touched with a sense of pity as I recalled what a brave and gallant fight the fish had made for life, and how useless the sacrifice of so beautiful a thing to gratify my ambition to be known as a great fisherman. He looked up at me out of his meek, gentle, tender eyes with a reproachful glance that not only brought sorrow, but shame for having so needlessly sacrificed so beautiful a living thing; but, like a tiger, having tasted blood, I wanted some more, and I caught another fish weighing 166 pounds, and then two more, and now I am registered as a taker of tarpon."

Unloads Without Stopping.

A New York wood dealer, who handles many cargoes of cordwood annually, finding that the time consumed in unloading carts at the yard amounted to a considerable item of expense, has invented a cart by which this item is eliminated entirely. The cart has a horizontal platform hung low between a pair of wheels on a crank axle. The platform is held in place by a button shutting into a slot in the forward part of the frame of the cart. The driver backs up to the string piece on the wharf and his cart is loaded. Then he drives to the yard and when he is at the spot where it is desired to unload the wood he simply turns the button and releases the platform and the platform tips backward, and thus the cart unloads itself. The driver never stops at all—he just keeps right on to the wharf again. The operation is so extremely simple and so obviously economical that it is a delight to the eye of even the most casual observer.

London Stone.

Most travelers while in London pay a visit to "London Stone." This historic stone is oblong in shape, of a grayish color, and is imbedded in the slabs of the foundation of St. Swithin's church, which is situated right in the heart of the city. This stone was erected by the Romans half a century before the birth of the Savior as the central milestone or point of their possessions in Britain. From it all roads, divisions of property and distances throughout the province were measured. It has been recognized as the heart of England from which all its arteries flowed by every historian or antiquary known to English literature. A feeling has always existed among Englishmen about this stone which was not altogether superstition, that as all distances were reckoned from it so it was in a certain way the base of the stability of England.

New Remedy for Diphtheria.

A new remedy for diphtheria is being tried with success in New Zealand. It is very simple. Put five drops of sulphuric acid in a tumbler, given so the child can swallow it. If the throat is obstructed give it with a teaspoon until the passage is cleared, then administer a wine glass every two hours. Burn sulphur in the room as strong as it can be borne.

The First Gas Lamp.

It is said that as early as 1660 Dr. Clayton distilled coal in a retort and produced gas, which he confined in bladders, and was accustomed to amuse his friends by burning this gas as it issued from holes in the bladder pricked with a pin. This was 150 years before gas lamps.

HARPER'S HISTORY OF THE WAR

Harper's Pictorial History is universally recognized as the best history of the war yet published. This superb work has never been sold for less than $16 to $30. It has been sold only by subscription and but a very few men have been able to buy it.

The pages are the same size as Harper's Weekly and the work contains all the illustrations appearing in that great paper during the war. The work was edited by Richard Grant White and Henry M. Alden and is authentic, complete and reliable.

We have made arrangements whereby we can furnish Gazette subscribers with this splendid history of twenty-six parts at ten cents a part. These twenty-six parts will contain over one thousand war pictures and will make two handsome volumes when bound.

Many official documents of priceless historic value are quoted in full in the copious foot notes, such for instance as Lincoln's inauguration speeches, articles of federation of the early states, constitution of the United States, ordinance of secession, and many important papers, speeches, etc. The war story is consecutive and very fascinating. The introductory chapters, leading up to the struggle, and the chapter on the reconstruction period, are by some of the first writers of the age.

It will astonish you how quick Johnson's Magic Oil will kill a pain. Sold at Smith's pharmacy; 25 and 50 cent

Not the Question.

In a case in which a man was accused of forgery, a witness for the defense managed to say: "I know that the prisoner cannot write his own name." "All that is excluded," said the judge; "the prisoner is not charged with writing his own name, but that of some one else!"

YOUR GOOD HEALTH, if you're a suffering woman, demands Doctor Pierce's Favorite Prescription. There's no other medicine like it, for women's peculiar ills. No matter how distressing your symptoms, it relieves your aches and pains, and if faithfully used will bring a permanent cure in every chronic weakness or derangement, in catarrhal inflammation, and in the displacements of women. West Liberty, O.

DR. R. V. PIERCE: Dear Sir—I can cheerfully recommend your valuable medicine, the "Favorite Prescription," to suffering females. Three years ago my health became so poor that I was scarcely able to help with the household duties. I was persuaded to try your medicine, and I purchased six bottles. That, with the local treatment you advised, made me strong and well.

My sister has used it in the family with like results.

SENATORIAL CONVENTION.

A republican convention in and for the Seventeenth senatorial district, will be held at Brodhead on Tuesday, the fourth day of September, 1894, at 11 o'clock a. m., for the purpose of renominating a candidate for state senator and for the transaction of such other business as may properly come before the convention. Each voting precinct in the district will be entitled to one delegate in the convention.

J. B. TREAT,
IRA U. FISHER,
HANS QUALE,
Committee.

THEY HAD GOOD MEMORIES.

With each day the strength of the republican ticket grows. It is a ticket the uniform merit of which makes it possible to describe it by touching on the attributes of the man at its head. Major W. H. Upham unites the sound, practical qualities of a successful business man with the broad mind of the man of the world. His earnest republicanism is attested by the willingness with which he stepped out of the way two years ago, when he was convinced that the nomination of John C. Spooner was for the party's interest. With enough pledged delegates to insure his nomination he relinquished his advantage cheerfully for the common good. Beyond a question this was remembered by the men in Milwaukee this year. When their first choice had been expressed they turned almost unanimously to Major Upham and in so doing chose a man of whom all Wisconsin is proud.

Inoculated chinch bugs, the same as have been used by Rock county farmers have produced an almost total annihilation of these pestiferous insects in Nebraska. So says the official crop report of the United States weather bureau. Why not inoculate a few political boodle bugs and kill of the pestiferous political parasites? There never was a time when the state was so badly afflicted with them.

Before the nomination Schofield and Haugen were the two A. P. A. candidates and Upham was a deserving and worthy man who had been downed by the secret society's power. How easily the democratic organs changed the tune when Upham forged ahead!

It is gratifying to know that Shakespearean English is still spoken by one or two members of the United States senate. It has looked for some time as if the dialect of the poker room had crowded out all other languages.

It is so seldom that Senator Hill finds himself on the same side of the question as President Cleveland that he is making the most of the opportunity afforded him by the president's tariff letter.

A Healthful Baking Powder.

DR. E. C. GOODRICH.

I regard Professor Horsford's Baking Powder as healthful and nutritious, it being composed of phosphatic acid and bi-carbonate of soda. The excellence of this combination is so universally commended by physicians and chemists, that my indorsement is simply superfluous. Bread made from unbolted or Graham flour, is more healthful than that made from refined flour, simply because the latter has been deprived of the nutritious phosphates. Horsford's powder restores to the flour the phosphates removed in the bolting process and increases the food properties of the bread by that amount. The phosphates aid digestion, and nourish and invigorate the brain and nervous system, and Professor Horsford's method of supplying them with our daily bread is certainly a wonderful triumph of scientific genius.

THE party we bought the Michigan stock of told Mr. Lincoln, after completing the sale just how many hundred dollars he had lost in the transaction. His misfortune can be made a money saving opportunity for you. He sold the stock awful low and we are willing to give you the benefit of our purchase. No house on earth can quote you a price to compare with the figures we have put on these goods. They are not a lot of old plunder, the accumulation of many years, but nice, new stuff purchased only of reliable houses by an experienced shoe man. Come in and call for Michigan stock. Brown Bros. & Lincoln.

Earth.

O earth, how to be envied thou art,
Everything is of thee, a sacred part.
Human bodies, each living thing
Goes back to thee; tyet out of thee doth spring
Other bodies, rare flowers, many gems—
Life of all kind, vines and tender stems,
How wondrous; we bury death in earth.
Yet to life and bloom thou givest back birth;
The fairest of God's children lie beneath thee.
Innocent babes, in their sweet purity,
All things find new life under earth.
We do not realize thy power and worth,
We know the elements of the sky are great
But after passing through earth, we meet our fate.
Earth generates life, earth does not die;
We cannot kill it, though it seems dead to lie.
How tenderly should we handle all earth,
Perhaps in our very hands we are holding birth,
Or the ashes of some of our departed ones,
Of our ancestor's noble sons,
If we stop to think 'tis one breathing mass
Hidden and covered with flowers and grass,
Yet we often wish, we were not to lie
Beneath thee, O earth, yet in thee, we shall not die.

Relative Merit.

The super had not been paid for weeks by the hard pressed manager, and he had starved and gone half clothed and shelterless, until he could stand it no longer, and he went to the boss for money.

"By thunder," exclaimed that person, "I've got no money; how can I pay you any? I'm only human; I can't do impossible things."

"And I suppose you think I'm superhuman and can," wailed the poor fellow in such a tone of helplessness, that the manager lent him a quarter to get his supper with.

IN THE HALLS OF JUSTICE.

During a hearing in the Jefferson market (Philadelphia police court the other day a woman among the spectators suddenly shook her fist at one of the policemen. When an attempt was made to eject her she resisted so forcibly that she was arrested and hauled before the justice. "What has the policeman done that you should shake your fist at him?" the judge asked. "Nothing," replied the woman, "only he looks like a man I don't like. She was fined $10.

A woman in Georgia was recently tried before a court on the charge of obtaining money under false pretenses. A clear case appears to have been made out against her, but her lawyer secured her discharge without denying a single allegation and without calling a single witness in her behalf. He simply asked the prosecutor whether he could swear teat the defendant was not of sound mind, and, on the answer being in the negative, the judge ordered the woman's discharge and lectured the prosecutor for bringing a case into court in which the prosecutor could not take oath as to the mental capacity of the defendant.

Clarence Merring and Richard Briggs, brothers-in-law, living at Williamsburg, Pa., had a quarrel lately, which caused them to appear in the police court. The two men married sisters on the same day about a year ago, and a few weeks ago Mrs. Merring became the mother of a bouncing boy, but Mrs. Briggs didn't. The two couples met at the house of their father-in-law in Jamaica, and Briggs asked permission to carry the baby down stairs for his wife to look at. Merring good naturedly advised him that he needed a little experience before he could trust him to handle his baby, whereupon Briggs got angry and in the quarrel that followed he hit the proud father in the eye. This was what brought these brothers into court.

EXPRESS MEN BITE AT A NEW SWINDLE.

BOGUS ORDERS ARE PUT IN CIRCULATION.

Lightning Struck On River Street This Morning—Chief Acheson Has a Time With Pat Dorsey—Judgment In Favor Of VanIngen and Leahey Today.

"JANESVILLE did not suffer from the money order swindle that has been worked on so many of the United States express offices in Wisconsin," said J. R. Botsford to-day. The Milwaukee office of the company cashed two orders, one for $23 and the other for $38. The total amount secured is estimated at $400 by the express officials. The swindler appears to be thoroughly familiar with the work of the express companies. He called at a number of small offices in the state recently and introduced himself to the agent in charge of the office as "Mr. Blank, route agent," who had been appointed to succeed Route Agent Kerrigan. He talked to the agent about business and then informed him that he had come to check up his books and ordered him to produce them. While checking the accounts he would criticise the agent for any carelessness in the work. He went over the books with such care and readiness that the agents never suspected him. The next step of the swindler was to secure the order books. His excuses were either that the office had the wrong series of orders or that the busines of the money department was too poor and that it had been decided to discontinue it. It is from these books that he secured at Fredonia and Grafton, Wis., that orders have been filled out and cashed by the swindler. In most cases the orders were cashed at stores.

LIGHTNING splintered a large shade tree on Wall street near the Schlitz brewery warehouse this morning during the shower. The bolt of lightning and the loud thunder immediately following startled everybody in the neighborhood of the passenger depots, and people rushed out to see where the lightning had struck.

IT has been the talk of the town lately how it is that in the face of the present hard times, and close money market, that we see so many new stylish turnouts in the city, but the riddle is easily solved by making a call on the Wisconsin Carriage Top Company. One can hardly afford to be without a carriage after seeing them and getting their prices.

IT seems impossible for the Wisconsin Carriage Top Company to get ahead of their orders, and at no time this season have they had stock enough ahead to make a good showing of their excellent work. They are at present behind their orders but expect to get new work on the floor the first of next week.

WILL OFFER BONDS TO LOCAL BANKERS.

MAYOR THOROUGHGOOD TO TAKE ACTION TUESDAY.

Until Then the Illinois Trust and Savings Company Has the Refusal—Anxiety Expressed to Provide Work For the Unemployed Mechanics.

There may be a chance yet for local capitalists to procure the $55,000 city school bonds. Mayor Thoroughgood in conversation with a Gazette reporter this morning said:

"I shall not do anything with the bonds until next Tuesday. I have given the Illinois Trust & Savings bank an option on the bonds until that time, and have notified the bank to return me all the papers sent them so I will be in possession by that time. I am very anxious to get the bonds off my hands. I hear that there are a number of people criticising me for not disposing of these bonds sooner, but I believe the twenty-seven hundred dollars premium is worth something to the city, and I propose to save it if I can. Many laboring men are anxious to get work on the new school building. I sincerely hope they will all get work, and I will do all I can to help them, but do not believe it policy to throw any money away. After Tuesday, if the Illinois bank fails to take the bonds, I will receive propositions from other parties and do the best I can in disposing of them."

CHURCH SOCIALS ON A HOT NIGHT

Birthday Offerings for Presbyterians and Old Songs for Baptists.

Birthday offerings were the central feature of last night's social at the Presbyterian church. There was ice cream, there was cake and there was a jolly time generally, but the event of the evening was the opening of little silken bags that had been distributed last Sunday in church. Within each bag was placed these lines:

A debt on our organ remains unpaid;
To lift it now we invite your aid.

So put in the bag that we send to you
Some pennies (or nickles or dimes will do).

One for each year of your life that is passed,
One for the first as well as the last.

The secret the bag will never unfold,
Should you wish that your years remain untold.

Then come if you can if you are well and hearty,
If not send some other party.

There'll be something to eat and a musical
Treat to pass the hours with flying feet.

Hot weather was defied by admirers of old fashioned music last night and the Baptist Sunday school room was filled. The programme was substantially the same as that given at the First Methodist church recently and was in charge of Mrs. C. B. Conrad. The singers were attired in the costumes of ye olden time and the selections were heartily applauded and well received by the audience. The Mandolin club gave several numbers and Mrs. J. B. Day also assisted with select readings.

SULPHURIC ACID ON HIS NECK.

W. A. West Has a Lively Time At the Eagle Creamery In Porter.

Sulphuric acid flew from an exploding milk-tester at the Porter creamery and stuck W. A. West, assistant dairy and food commissioner. Mr. West was in his shirt sleeves inspecting the creamery and felt the full effects of the acid. He plunged his head into water, and then applied fresh butter. This saved his head and face from the effects of the acid, but his shirt and wrapper were eaten in many places.

PAVE MORE OF MAIN STREET.

North End of the Thoroughfare Will Receive Attention Next.

FATHER CONDON SAYS FAREWELL.

Eloquent Young Priest Goes From Janesville to Templeton, Waukesha County.

Rev. Father Condon preaches his last sermon in Janesville tomorrow at 10 o'clock mass. He bids farewell to St. Patrick's church where he has been assistant to Dean McGinnity for three years and goes to take a charge of his own. His new station is Templeton, Waukesha county, eight miles from the village of Waukesha. He will have two cqurches about three miles apart. Father Condon's work in Janesville has shown him to be eloquent, thoughtful and a man of much patience and energy. Much is expected of him in his new home. His successor in Janesville will be Father John Collins, of Gratiot, a young man who was ordained at St. Francis' seminary on the 17th of last month.

DO YOU WEAR RUSSET TIES

Then Stockings to Match Should be Worn—Here Are the Novelties.

The russett shoe demands a russet stocking. The shops have a most fascinating display of russet hosiery to choose from and at prices of which even the economical women will approve. There are plain russet hose and those which are ribbed for ordinary wear.

Then there are the russet stockings which are known as the novelties. Some are of tan with a different colored top. They are extremely pretty. Others have an effective open work instep. The russet stocking with fine silk stripes is also a novelty of the season and at Archie Reid's where all these novelties are to be found the demand has been remarkable.

Some Desirable Things.

Those baked beans in large cans are fine, and at fifteen cents each, or two for twenty-five cents, are cheaper and cooler than you can bake them at home.

A four sewed parlor broom, with brush as fine as a whisk broom, and as neatly made as any broom we ever handled. We bought the lot less than cost to make them. We will sell them at 25 cents each, or six for $1.25.

Nearly 200 pounds of those new, this season's catch of mackerel sold this week. Grubb Bros.

Funeral of Mrs. A. W. McKinney.

The remains of Mrs. A. W. McKinney were deposited in the Sloan vault at Oak Hill, this afternoon. Funeral services were held at the home of her son, H. D. McKinney, Park Place, at 2:30 o'clock, conducted by W. H. Wotton, of Trinity church, he being assisted in the song service by the Christ church choir. A Lie Nailed.

The assertion made by a rival clothier that the globe used in the high school contains an advertisement of Ziegler's boy's long pant suit sale, at $5 is a base fabrication born of his belief in the general patronage that Ziegler enjoys.

DESERTION A NAME THAT COVERS MUCH

DIVORCE SOUGHT BY THOMAS E. HALLS TODAY.

His Complaint, As Stated by the Circuit Court Officials, Is "Plain Desertion" But the Doors of Judge Bennette's Chamber Are Barred Nevertheless.

"Plain desertion" is given as the cause of divorce granted Thomas E. Halls, the defendant, Lydia Halls, not putting in an appearance. Silas Menzies, of Beloit, appeared as attorney for the plaintiff before Judge Bennett this morning, and obtained the decree. Court officers in certain divorce proceedings are prohibited from disclosing the facts, and reporters found it difficult to obtain particulars in the Halls matter. According to statutes reporters are forbidden to see even the complaint, and are excluded from hearing testimony. But the facts developed to-day led to the conclusion that "plain desertion" in this case was a mantle which covered up many iniquities.

Do You Know Sanspareil?

Read the following and you will understand more about it.

NEW YORK CITY, Oct. 5, 1879.

To Whom it May Concern:

After forty years of successful practice in this city and realizing that my work is done, I want to make the following statement concerning the secret of my success Many who read this statement will remember that I frequently said that I would give $100 for any case of rheumatism that I could not cure I was equally successful in treating inflammation and diphtheria. These cures were always effected by the use of a liniment that I prepared myself. I was offered at one time $7,000 for the formula. Its absorbing qualities surpass anything I have ever seen and it will cure rheumatism, neuralgia, tumors, inflammation of various kinds, sprains and bruises on both man and beast like magic. I shall bequeath it with a small legacy to my grandson. Wilbur F. Requa, and hope that he will some day put it on the market. This is Sanspareil.

BRIEF BITS OF HUMOR.

Couldn't Guess.

College Chum—Who is that pretty girl over there?

Junior—The one in the blue dress?

"Goodness, no. She has a nose like a parrot."

"The one in black?"

"That peaked thing. Of course not.

"Oh, you mean the one with red flowers in her hat?"

"No, I don't. I mean the one talking to her."

"Eh? You don't call her pretty, do you? She's my sister."—Good News.

A Pressing Invitation.

Mrs. De Style—My dear Miss Van Note, I am so glad I met you. Didn't know you were back. You must come to my converzatione to-morrow.

Miss Van Note—Really, Mrs. De Style, I am afraid I should not be much of an acquisition.

Mrs. De Style—Oh, you do yourself injustice. We don't want you to talk; we want you to play the piano.—N. Y. Weekly.

Their Time of Peace.

The Irish and English seem ne'er to agree
Because in a manner exciting
They tread on each other's coat tails, don't you see?
And then there's some old-fashioned fighting.
But, then, they in beautiful peace find relief,
And are just like two birds of a feather,
When the Irish potato and English rib beef
In the stew pot are gathered together.
—Truth.

A Precaution.

"Then, when you have finished your lecture," said the professor of elocution and deportment to young Dulle, "bow gracefully, and leave the platform on tiptoe."

"Why on tiptoe?" queried Dulle.

"So as not to wake the audience," replied the professor.—Boston Globe.

Sarcasm.

"Mistah," said an urchin to the man who was driving a poor horse, "does you want me to hol' 'im?"

"No; this horse won't run away."

"I don't mean to hol' 'im fas', so's he won' run away. I meant hol' 'im up, so's he won't drap."—Washington Star.

Nothing to Lose.

Mrs. Mann—You may think you'll have everything your own way; but you'll find that my mother has a will of her own.

Mr. Mann—Yes; and I'm not mentioned in it, anyway; so that has no terrors for me.—Puck.

A Very Bad Case.

"Aw, Bunkins is socially ostracised."

"Yes."

"Completely an outcast."

"Completely. His social status is so low that he couldn't even lend money to a titled foreigner."—Washington Star.

The Usual Course.

Burglar Bill—I say, Sam, wouldn't it be a pleasant an' comfortable thing if there wasn't any laws agin robbin'?

Safe Cracker Sam (thoughtfully)—Le's git elected to the legislature.—Life.

SHE WAS RIGHT, OF COURSE.

He (impatiently)—You bet if I were a woman I'd make up my mind mighty quick.

She—Then you wouldn't be a woman.—Detroit Free Press.

Repeated Annually.

Miss Amy—I wonder how old that Miss Maleys is, anyway?

Mr. Scrubbles—Twenty-four, I believe.

Miss Amy—Nonsense! What makes you think that?

Mr. Scrubbles—Hasn't she told me so every year since I met her?—Chicago Record.

Meddling With Edged Tools.

"Your words are unnecessarily cutting, Miss Benderby," said the youth, stung by her scornful rejection. "They come from a sharper tongue than I thought you possessed."

"And yet," responded the maiden, dreamily, "how often you have spoken of my finely-chiseled lips!"—Chicago Tribune.

Better Scheme.

Mrs. Treetop—The water smells so I can't use it; you'd better see if there isn't a dead rat in the well.

Uncle Treetop—Not much, Mary Ann; I'm going to advertise for boarders, calling attention to that well as a mineral spring.—N. Y. World.

Similar Advantages.

Macey—Have you had a college education?

Stayze—No, but I have had my muscles developed by professional trainers.—Chicago Record.

"Your hand, your hand," the hero cried,
As the waves were closing o'er her head;
The drowning maiden oped her eyes;
"This is so sudden, sir," she said.

A BEAUTY COURSE.

It Is Quite Simple, and the Leading Medicament Is Soap and Water.

A young woman has lately published an article telling how to become beautiful in two weeks without the aid of a complexion specialist. She states her own personal experience of the treatment she recommends, which includes such unusual medicaments as abundant fresh air, food and sleep. It would not seem that two weeks of this regime, which the young woman appears to think will appeal to the world as something entirely new, would suffice to metamorphose even a person to whom it was as great a novelty as she evidently found it, but she says it did and relates the details of the wondrous change. Wondrous it was, for at the beginning of the two weeks her hands were rough and sunburned, her skin yellow, eruptive and covered with black specks, her eyes dull, her hair thin and her joints stiff and even squeaking. What she could have been doing to get into such a condition is beyond conjecture, but thus she was, and mere common wholesomeness of appearance must have looked like ravishing beauty beside her. In order to make the most of her curative 14 days, she went into the country, where she set about the beautifying process in desperate earnest by obtaining some warm water and castile soap and washing her face. The immediate improvement in her looks encouraged her to further exertions, and she began brushing her hair thoroughly, a practice which she kept up conscientiously every day of the memorable fortnight. By wearing gloves when she went out of doors she triumphed over the sunburn on her hands, and a liberal diet of sulphur and molasses—a remedy that smells to heaven, and the odor of which is as persistent as musk—caused the rose and the lily to quarrel for the supremacy in her complexion. How the squeaking joints were quieted the patient does not clearly state, but at the end of the two weeks they were silenced, and she was beautiful. The process is so simple that if it had only been found out before there would not be a plain woman on the face of the earth by this time. But now that the young woman has generously divulged her discovery we can all retire for a couple of weeks, and, with the aid of soap and water, reappear so much altered and improved that our friends cannot recognize us.

A sketch is given of a gown of rose colored muslin, with pale green stripes. The skirt, which has a peplum, is made over a rose colored taffeta underskirt and is decorated in front with green ribbons. The round bodice has green folded bretelles which cross over the bosom and are edged with ecru lace. The guimpe is of rose colored gauze, and the short puffed sleeves are finished with three ruffles of lace.

PARISIAN FANCIES.

Tendency For Different Materials and Contrasting Colors.

Paris is all alive over what it calls "Le Pas de Quatre," otherwise "Dancing In the Barn," which is already out of date here. It was carried to France from England and has met with an enthusiastic reception. It is undoubtedly a pretty dance, infinitely more picturesque than the stiff kneed "York" or any other of its contemporaries that were so popular in America a few years ago.

It is altogether fashionable to have the bodice and skirt of different materials and contrasting colors. Even more variation is allowed than appeared last year, for the eye has become thoroughly accustomed to abrupt transitions.

All white costumes are quite the mode, and white often enters largely into the composition of costumes of combined colors. It is frequently employed with gray, brown, blue and black and is considered very effective, although it is perishable in anything except wash fabrics. White and colored lawns are much worn.

Tussore silk is used for children's garments, and yellow is much liked for them, especially in straw and corn shades. Decided yellow is by no means a juvenile color, any more than clear green or purple, and should therefore be avoided, particularly in combination with black. Red, blue, brown and olive in various shades for dark colors and pale blue, rose, straw and white for light ones allow a quite sufficient range for little people, who should be confined to youthful tints and styles as long as possible, childhood being so small a part of life, even when mothers make the most of it.

The girl's gown illustrated is of ecru silk gingham trimmed with a band of insertion laid over ruby satin ribbon. The chemisette, over which the ample crossed revers open, is of ruby surah.

Time Is Money.

Col. Sympson, who was always asking people to advance him money, died not long ago in a Texas town at the age of eighty-six. Two gentlemen, one of whom had advanced him money very frequently, were talking about the deceased, when one of them took occasion to say:

"With him the ruling passion was strong in death."

"How so?"

Not a Peculiar Term.

"Why do you use such peculiar terms?" asked a lawyer's wife of her husband, who had returned home worn out by his day's labors.

"I don't see how you could have been working all day like a horse."

"Well, my dear," he replied, "I've been drawing a conveyance all day. Isn't that working like a horse?"—Green Bag.

A Deep-Laid Scheme.

"No," sobbed the pretty girl, "Harold and I never speak now. And it is all through the machinations of that deceitful Sallie Slimmins."

"Why, what did she do?"

"She persuaded us to join the same church choir."—Washington Evening Star.

TWO BACK NUMBERS.

"Steve" Dorsey and Henry G. Davis Now Unknown Politically.

New York seems to be the haven of the political back number. In an afternoon stroll down Breadway and through Wall street one is sure to meet a dozen men who were once powerful in state and national politics, but who, for one reason or another, have fallen by the way and are now seldom heard of outside a limited circle of friends and business associates.

It was in Wall street that I ran across ex-Senator Dorsey of Arkansas, the other day, much grayer than when he managed the famous Garfield campaign, but still as erect, wide-awake and vigorous as of old. What a career Dorsey has had! He has made and lost three fortunes, and is now, I am told, in a fair way to win a fourth.

Dorsey was born in Vermont and reared on an Ohio farm. During the war he served as a private in the army of the Potomac. After the war he turned up in Arkansas, and by reason of great natural shrewdness and a resolute character soon became the leader of the band of carpet baggers who then overran that state. He was made chairman of the republican state committee, secured a fortune as president of the Arkansas Central railroad, whose bonds he had indorsed by the state legislature, and in 1873 was elected United States senator.

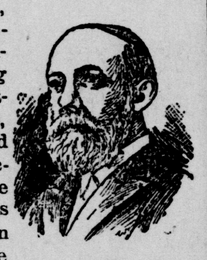
In 1880 he was chairman of the republican national committee, and the story of how he managed the campaign resulting in Garfield's election is a familiar one. He was then one of idols of his party. In 1881 came the star route exposure, and with it Dorsey's political downfall. Since then he has been engaged in cattle raising in the west, but in this field disaster has twice overtaken him.

The Star route trials cost him a fortune. He is now making another as a promoter of New Mexico mining properties. If Dorsey would tell all he knows about the formation of Garfield's cabinet and its effect on his own political fortunes the story would make most interesting reading and would give several gentlemen still prominent in politics a very bad quarter of an hour.

Henry G. Davis, who was Dorsey's associate in the senate, now has an office in one of the big buildings on lower Broadway. He still claims West Virginia as his home, but spends the greater part of his time in New York. Since he began life as a brakeman on the Baltimore & Ohio road, Davis has played many parts, and played them well. He has been president of a bank, member of both branches of the West Virginia legislature, director in half a dozen railroads and United Senator for six years. His interests in West Virginia are vast and varied, and he is several times a millionaire. Stephen B. Elkins married his daughter and is associated with him in many of his adventures. Davis long dominated the politics of West Virginia, but in the end was pushed aside by younger men and is now counted among the back numbers.

Death of an Old Conductor.

John B. Adams, who died in Springfield, Mass., recently, was conductor of the first train from Springfield to Albany, in 1841, and had many interesting experiences during his long service. He escorted Kossuth in 1851, and in 1860 had charge of the special train with the Prince of Wales aboard. When Henry Clay was one of his passengers, in 1849, there were no smoking cars, but Mr. Adams allowed the Kentucky statesman to smoke, a favor which was remembered, and a cordial letter from Clay was treasured by Mr. Adams till his death. He retired in 1873.



JOHN. B. ADAMS.

An Extraordinary Woman.

Miss Alice King, the blind novelist, who died recently in England, must have been a woman of extraordinary perseverence. She was born with defective vision, and became totally blind at the age of seven. Nevertheless, her education went on under her mother's guidance, and she acquired by ear seven languages. She learned to use a typewriter, with which she wrote her manuscripts, which were afterward read to her by her sister. Most of the proceeds of her literary work were devoted to benevolences.

The Legion of Honor.

The appointment by the French government of Mr. James Stokes of New York as a knight of the Legion of Honor of France, is pleasing to his friends in that city. Mr. Stokes has always given liberally to the various branches of the Young Men's Christian association, and it was owing to his donation to the Y. M. C. A. of Paris that the government honored him. It is said that Mr. Stokes and his family gave more than four hundred thousand francs to this cause in Paris alone.

Some Thespian Statistics.

Here is an interesting little group of statistics: Sarah Bernhardt was born in Paris in 1844; Marie Burroughs, San Francisco, 1866; Rose Coghlan, England, 1853; Georgia Cayvan, Maine, 1858; Sadie Martinot, Yonkers, N. Y., 1857; Mrs. Kendal, England, 1849; Ada Rehan, Limerick, Ireland, about 1856; Mme. Rhea, Belgium, 1855; Ellen Terry, England 1848; Adelina Patti, Spain, 1843; Margaret Mather, Detroit, Mich., 1861, and Lillian Russel, Iowa, 1860.

LED BY OTHER RODENTS.

A Blind Rat Guided to and From Its Food and Hiding Place.

The manner in which rats steal eggs has always been regarded as a wonderful example of animal intelligence. It is well known how one rat will hold the egg firmly between its four legs, then turn over upon its back and, remaining in this position, allow itself to be pulled along by other rats until the nest is reached. Remarkable as this may seem, a writer for the Pittsburg Dispatch recently heard of a still more astonishing example of the intelligence of a rat. Patrick Hurley lives in a rural portion of the twenty-third ward. Some distance away from his home is a large barn, where, besides horses and cows, he keeps a number of chickens. About 100 yards from the barn a brook winds its way through a ravine Naturally the presence of corn and grain about the barn has drawn many rats. They frequently come out in the barnyard for food or to play. Among the rats the Hurleys had observed one that was a rare specimen of its tribe. Its coat was of a pure white. Strangely, too, the white rat, whenever it appeared, had a companion that was apparently leading it. This peculiarity caused the people to watch the rodents. They discovered that the white rat always held a straw in its mouth by which the other rat led it. They concluded the rat was blind. Sometimes, when a particularly good lot of corn was found, the white rat would drop the straw and proceed to satisfy his hunger. But by an impatient movement he was always able to bring to him one of his kind friends, who would pick up the straw, give it to him and lead the unfortunate back to the nest under the barn. One of the most remarkable things noted was the fact that every day the blind rat was led out by another down to the brook to get a drink. This was not an occasional but a regular performance. After the blind animal had satisfied its thirst the straw would be put into its mouth by its companion or attendant and the rat led carefully back. But one day some boys who were not acquainted with the story of the blind white rat, saw the two coming from the creek and at once charged on them. The leader of the blind rat endeavored to hurry up his charge, but was finally forced to let go of the straw and scamper off to save its own life. The white rat, left helpless, ran blindly around until the boys caught and killed it.

COSTLY AND HARD WORKED

Circus Horses Valued From $2,500 to $5,000 When Thoroughly Trained.

"A good circus horse is a most expensive purchase," said a trainer to a writer for Harrison's Magazine, "as you may judge when I tell you that I frequently pay $1,500 for a single animal before it has been trained. I have one black horse now in my possession which I wouldn't part with for $2,000, although it is only employed in the ring. Last year when I was exhibiting near New York City a New York millionaire and his family visited my exhibition and were so much impressed with the beauty and grace of this noble animal that he offered me $1,800 for her, but I declined the offer. An ordinary thoroughbred Kentucky horse bought for $1,500 is worth to me when thoroughly trained for the circus ring anywhere from $2,500 to $5,000. American thoroughbred horses, although they are more difficult to train by reason of their fine organizations and excitability, are far and away the best animals for performing purposes. They stand work and are fit to be put in harness soon after going through their tricks. I am the owner of 300 horses, and I guarantee that everyone of them is sound and perfect. Remember, a horse for my purpose has to be sound and sagacious, and I reject an endless number before fixing on a clever one. Horses differ entirely as regards intellect. As an instance I may tell you that two and one-half years is occupied in training some horses, while two or three months may suffce for the thorough tuition of others. I took nine months, by the way, to teach a horse to catch a ball in his mouth, but by far the hardest task is to induce a big horse to jump over a pony. I expect to give this act during the coming season.

How Vandalia Got Its Name.

Some of the names of towns are arrived at in a peculiar way. For example, the town of Vandalia, in Illinois, which was named in a singular manner. The man who owned the land upon which the present town of Vandalia is situated was a man without a great deal of education, and wanted a lawyer friend of his, who was a wag, to give him a name for his new town. The wag suggested that the Vandals were a very noted people, and that he should name his town "Vandalia, or the home of the Vandals." It was at that time the coming metropolis of Illinois and subsequently was the capital of that state, and was named Vandalia, the home of the Vandals, according to the wit's suggestion.—Cincinnati Enquirer.

A Universal Failing.

"What's old Swizzles, the millionaire, looking so pleased about? He just lost $10,000 in stocks."

"Yes, but afterward he managed to get a free ticket to a seventy-five cent show."—Chicago Record.

WHY FISH TAKE FLIES.

A Mooted Point Among the Disciples of Quaint Old Izaak Walton.

Sir Herbert Maxwell's recent argument is to the effect that salmon bite at the fly from curiosity, or from mixed motives, not from hunger. A second rise may be "motived" by wrath at a slight prick. This we think unreasonable, says the London Saturday Review. The more a fish—a salmon, that is—feels a prick, the less chance there is of his coming again. The angler may be sensible of a tug and yet may hook his prey on a second venture, but then it is probable that the salmon never touched the point. He got hold of the feathers or of the body of the hook.

The hypothesis of his indignation was invented years ago, in the case of trout, by the Spectator. Some one argued that trout do not feel as we feel, consequently that angling is not so cruel as angling for the editor of the Spectator would be. That position is demonstrable. The mouth of the editor of the humane journal is not a grisly, horny kind of substance. The theorist went on to urge that you may see a trout feeding in clear water, may put a dry fly over him, hook him, lose him; see him feed again, hook him again, lose him, and never put him off his feed. This is a matter of fact. Last summer we had occasion to observe it. The trout, twice hooked, never ceased to feed; he only shifted his position by about a foot and a half, and went on eating natural flies. Now this circumstance shows that the trout's appetite was undiminished, though he had twice felt the steel and been dragged across the stream.

The Spectator, however, urged that the pricked fish comes again, when he does come again, in anger and revenge. Nonsense? He merely continues to dine, taking such floating flies as recommend themselves to his taste and fancy. Now, if you hooked the Spectator with a whitebait, and played him upstairs and downstairs, and stirred him up under the table, and broke him on the banisters, he would not proceed to a cutlet. The trout does not remain feeding, normally, sometimes. The argument that he snaps in anger may therefore be dismissed. The fish's motive is appetite. He is looking for floating flies, and he sometimes takes the artificial for the real article. If hooked, he often does not feel pain enough to frighten him.

The Port of Paris.

The importance of the movements of the port of Paris, which includes the whole department of the Seine, will astonish many readers. The arrivals in 1893 gave a total tonnage of 1,621,566 tons and the departures 6,054,804, which, compared with the preceding year, shows an increase of 97,185 tons and 78,180 tons, respectively.

Mighty is the Truth.

And it will prevail! Against underhanded competition and spurious imitation, the genuine efficacy of the great national tonic, Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, always has and always will prevail. The public recognize it everywhere as the chief preventive of malaria, and a reliable specific for dyspepsia, constipation, nervousness, rheumatism, kidney trouble, biliousness and loss of appetite. Efforts made by irresponsible dealers to compete with it by indirect means have and will continue to fall upon the heads, and it may be added, the pockets of those making them. Through the length and breadth of the American continent it is the acknowledged household remedy, reliable and prompt. It relies upon facts, upon public experience, and upon the emphatic commendation of the medical fraternity.

A VETERAN'S VERDICT.

The War is Over. A Well-known Soldier, Correspondent and Journalist Makes a Disclosure.

Indiana contributed her thousands of brave soldiers to the war, and no state bears a better record in that respect than it does. In literature it is rapidly acquiring an enviable place. In war and literature Solomon Yewell, well known as a writer as "Sol," has won an honorable position. During the late war he was a member of Co. M, 2d. N. Y. Cavalry and of the 13th Indiana Infantry Volunteers. Regarding an important circumstance he writes as follows:

"Several of us old veterans here are using Dr. Miles' Restorative Nervine, Heart Cure and Nerve and Liver Pills, all of them giving splendid satisfaction. In fact, we have never used remedies that compare with them. Of the Pills we must say they are the best combination of the qualities required in a preparation of their nature we have ever known. We have none but words of praise for them. They are the outgrowth of a new principle in medicine, and tone up the system wonderfully. We say to all, try these remedies."—Solomon Yewell, Marion, Ind., Dec. 5, 1892.

These remedies are sold by all druggists on a positive guarantee, or sent direct by the Dr. Miles Medical Co., Elkhart, Ind., on receipt of price, $1 per bottle, six bottles $5, express prepaid. They positively contain neither opiates nor dangerous drugs.

SNOBS NOT WANTED.

Story of a Political Campaign in the Blue Grass State.

John C. Underwood, who was elected lieutenant governor of Kentucky on the same ticket with Luke Blackburn, is an amusing story teller, particularly when he is started on the subject of political stumping in Kentucky. "Our people," said he to a New York Evening Post man not long ago, "don't like snobbishness. I remember one time when I was stumping one of the mountain counties, I bought $25 worth of nickels and carried them in my saddle bags. At every log cabin I would ride up and ask for a drink of water. Out would come a little boy or girl with a gourd dipper of warm water. I would take a swallow, then drop a nickel in the dipper. The little one would run in and I would go on. The child's mother would come out and have the generous gentleman pointed out. The consequence was that I got the vote of that house. Well, one morning I rode up to a house and a little girl brought me out a dipper of water. I felt in my pocket and discovered that I hadn't a copper.

"'Little girl,' said I, 'I generally have a nickel somewhere about me, but I haven't to-day, so I'll give you what's the next best thing for a girl, and that's a kiss,' and I got down off my horse and kissed her for my own little blue-eyed girl at home. Another little black-eyed girl here showed up, and I had to kiss her for a niece of mine she looked like. By this time another little girl showed up, half a head taller than the rest, and, not to be impartial, I kissed her; when I found that four or five other girls had gathered, and I was in for it. So, beginning with the smallest, I kissed each one. The change in stature was so gradual that I didn't notice that the last one was a full-grown young woman—and right handsome at that—until I had kissed her. Looking up, I saw that there were two or three old ladies laughing at me, and, thinking that I had made a bad break, I lifted my hat to the young lady and begged her pardon and explained how it was. She didn't seem to mind it much, but the old ladies kept laughing, and one said: 'Why, durn it, she's Bill's wife.'

"'Well,' I thought, 'I'm in for it. That knocks out all my votes in this neighborhood.' I inquired at the next house who Bill was, and was told that it was 'Buck' Holmes, the hardest citizen in Carter county. Next day I had to speak at the courthouse, and when I came up I noticed a gang of about twenty-five rough looking fellows off at one side, and a big six-footer talking to them and gesticulating with both hands.

"'Who's that?' I inquired.

"'That's "Buck" Holmes and his gang,' was the reply. Cold chills ran down my back and I shifted my revolver around to where I could reach it without trouble, and then sauntered up to overhear what he was saying.

"'Well, I'm blankety blanked,' I heard him say, 'if he don't catch my vote. No snob thar, gentlemen. Jest as soon kiss a poor man's wife as a rich one's!' That settled it, and I got 150 more votes in that county than any other man on the ticket."

Sweetening Sugar With Salt.

Professor Zunte, a German chemist and an expert before some big Berlin physiological society, accidentally discovered the fact that sugar's sweetening properties were actually strengthened by the addition of a minute quantity of salt. From his experiments he finds that if to a solution of sugar there be added a slight amount of salt and water, so weak that it excites no saline taste, the result proves that the strength of the sugar is much augmented thereby. He also says that the very weakest possible solution of quinine and water produces a similar effect. The explanation which the learned professor gives of the above seeming incongruity is this: That, be the saltness or bitterness ever so feeble, providing it is sufficient to excite the follicles of the tongue at all, it imparts an increased sensibility to the organs of taste.—St. Louis Republic.
